Sapient Springer's Stupendous Stupidity.

Hob. William M. Springer is a distinguished stateman and parliamentarian who represents the Bpringfield, Ill., district in Congress. At least he is a distinguished stateman and parliamentarian in the estimation of the Hon. William M. Springer. The Hon. Springer can't help foreing himself upon the attention of the Rome. He knows all about every question that has ever come up. He knows more about law than all the law-writters and law-makers since the middle M. Springer. The Bon. Springer can supported by binsel upon the attention of the House. He knows all about every question that has ever ecome up. He knows more shout law than all the law-writers and law-makers since the middle ages. Does a parliamentary question arise under the ruise, there is Springer to the front, yelling at the Speaker in tonorous tones, and holding aloft Barclay's Digest, with his finger on the exact spot that is to settle the mooted question. But the Springer made a fatal spring for his reputation a years go. A bill was pending giving aid to the Centennial Exhibition to the axtent of $1,80,800. The question was will the United States ever get this money back. The Centennial Cenmittee said yea. So did the Philadelphia delegation. The bill was no drawn that the United States was a preferred creditor. The stockholders, it was raid, did not expect to make money out of their stock, and the United States was a preferred as the best of the states should be the first to be reimbursed. But Springer knew a trick or two. He wanted to make the bill iron-clad. And so he offered an amendment providing that the United States should be the first to be reimbursed. But Springer knew as trick or two. He wanted to make the bill iron-clad. And so he offered an amendment providing that the United States was an extended to the property of the Exhibition. Mr. Hopkins, of the Centennial Committee, said the bill was stronger to ecoure the United States as it was. But Springer was inexorable. He would have that word profits' inserted. In the confusion, and without a thorough examination, the word was inserted, And now comes the result. The Exhibition is now ever, and by a recent indicial decision the United States gats nothing. It cannot trenshare with the stockholders. They will get a pro rata dividend. And the stockholders bless Mr. Springer. Perhaps he was in "cahoets" with them. Who knows? The Tichborne Claimant.

A virit to the convict Orton, at Dartmoor, was paid recently by Mr. Guilfrod Onslow. Mr. Heleby and a Mr. Stubbs, whose family have been tenants on the Tichborne estates for the past 200 years. Instead of the visitors seeing the prisoner in the Deputy Tovornor's office, as on previous occasions, the newly-appointed Correror insisted upon the prison rules being observed and the interview taking place in the condinary three-compartment room, with a warden between the convict and his friends.

Orton was more down-hearted than on any previous occasion, and complained that he was treated cruelly, and expressed a hope that the matter would be brought before. Parliament, so that there might be a commission of inquiry into his case. He seemed to be in good health, but complained of an affection of the throat and head resembling crystpeles. The Rome decretary had removed and a the expiration of that period the visitors quitted the prison, and left for Plymouth in company with the members of the Tichborne Release Association.

—American drummers and canvassers must look to their laurely, since recent history record the fact that a commercial traveler of Birmingham, who tracked his victim to a holiday featival, ensert the car of the balloon in which the worthy trades
